

Finger Bang (Romantic Comedy)

Orgasmic Meditation? Therapeutic?! Kaylee Baker is horrified when her girlfriends suggest a trip to artsy Boulder, Colorado, to check out the latest craze. What her friends don't know about Kaylee is that she is a little repressed, bordering on frigid, and the idea of a complete stranger bringing her to orgasm therapy or notis horrifying. Blaze Donahue has admired Kaylee from afar for quite some time, and part of the reason he's kept his distance is because he's had no indication that she might even be interested. But when he's given the opportunity to offer her his own version of OM with no strings attached, he makes an offer she has a hard time refusing. When there are undeniable sparks between the two, Kaylee runs, afraid of the overwhelming feelings she has for this gorgeous, sensitive guy. Blaze feels compelled to convince her otherwise but wonders if he'll be able to crack through the ice surrounding this sweet girl. Can they find true love or will it just be a one-time O?

Despite the other acceptances, she was saddened. Plans for her prom and graduation intensified and Sara felt time slipping through her fingers as Chloe prepared. I really liked this piece and thought it very well done. But the general idea or conceit of the film was hilarious.
